Repudiates the Platform.

One of the astonishing things in the House debate on Friday was the practical repudiation of the Democratic platform by Mr. Rayner of Maryland. After declaring for the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law and acknowledging that the Treasury Department had practically annulled it already he closed his speech with the remarkable words: "As for me, in this supreme hour of my country's needs, I am not blinded nor intimidated by the glittering words of convention declarations." That is to say, Mr. Rayner repudiates the Democratic platform as to silver. That is what all the Eastern Democrats do when they take the position Mr. Rayner announced in this speech, but few of them have the honesty to say as he does frankly that his position is a repudiation of the Democratic platform and that he is quite ready to repudiate it. It is a candid admission, and we are glad to see it made thus early in the fight; and trust that there will be no mincing of words and that all Democrats who really take the position of Mr. Rayner and repudiate their own platform will have the decency and honesty to admit the fact. Democrats repudiating Democracy and refusing to carry out the pledges which they acknowledge their party made in order to win before the people, presents a sight for gods and men. Mr. Rayner is to be congratulated more for his frankness than for his political integrity. Mr. Bland does well to announce that he has no part or lot among such a set of rascals. — Salt Lake Tribune.

The Bay Ferry War.

Monday an attempt was made to run down the opposition ferry boats, by the other steamers, but by the prompt action of the Captain of the new line, a collision was averted. By such action the old lines showed their hands, and clearly demonstrated that they were losing patronage as well as their tempers.

The Little Giant.

Hon. Lafe Pence, member of congress from Colorado, the little giant of the West, picked up and walked away with Cleveland, Carlisle and their co-conspirators on the 11th instant on the silver question and held them out to wet as a mother does her child. — Silver State.

San Francisco is stirred up upon the elopement of a young man named Turner and a married woman named Jamieson. They express untold love for one another, and have no excuse for their action, except life would be a blank to either one without the other, which, if true, ought to at least furnish Mr. Jamieson reasonable grounds for divorce. We might add that Jamieson is a fool to chase Turner with intent to inflict bodily harm; he should reward Turner with a medal.

An exchange says that one-third of the country think that they can beat a lawyer in expounding the law; one-half of them think that they can beat a doctor healing the sick; two-thirds of them think that they can beat the minister in preaching the gospel, and all of them think that they can beat an editor running a newspaper.

The programme of the House has been definitely fixed by the adoption of the order introduced Friday last by Blend, that the time be devoted exclusively to the consideration of the silver question under the rules of the last House governing general debate.

Sullivan quarreled with a man the other day, and knocked him down. The man immediately pulled a gun, and people who saw John L. move out the door, are now certain that he was dragged when he met Corbett.

The APPEAL is in receipt of a pamphlet from the Keeley Institute of this city, setting forth the advantage of the Keeley Cure for drunkenness. It is an exhaustive work and well worth reading, being both interesting and instructive.

Summer isn't over yet by a good deal, if anyone should inquire of you.
